ONLINE TRACKING

The process of collecting data, anonymously, of the identity, preferences, interests, and so on... of a user. This mechanism is widely used by companies called "Data Brokers". This information is being obtained through cookies and other technologies.

About this project

The Dating Brokers: An autopsy of online love

By Joana Moll in collaboration with Tactical Tech. (October 2018)

Profiles for Sale

In May 2017 artist Joana Moll and Tactical Tech purchased 1 million online dating profiles for 136€ from USDate, a US-based company that trades in dating profiles from all over the globe. The batch of dating profiles we purchased included pictures (almost 5 million of them), usernames, e-mail addresses, nationality, gender, age and detailed personal information about all of the people who had created the profiles, such as their sexual orientation, interests, profession, thorough physical characteristics and personality traits. Purchasing this data exposed a vast network of companies that are capitalising on this information without the conscious consent of the users, whom ultimately are the ones being exploited. This project attempts to make parts of that network, and how it works, visible to everyone. Where these profiles came from?

Dodgy Dealings

Exchanging and purchasing online dating profiles is common practice within the online dating industry. The method is frequently used to populate new online dating sites when they first get started. But established dating sites are also continuously trading in profiles – in order to get new faces into their services and thus increase the matchmaking probabilities among their users (and get new paying subscribers). According to online dating experts, there are two ways to acquire new profiles: from so-called White Label Dating Services, or via more shadowy services – what might be called “Black Hat Dating”.

Origin Stories

USDate, our dating profile dealer, did not disclose the source (or sources) of the profiles we purchased. In order to trace their origins, we looked into the company’s official “partners” (as they label them on their site). Then we forensically analysed some of the images contained in the dataset we bought: first by doing reverse-image searches of the profile pictures, to see if they appeared on other dating websites; then by examining the metadata of the images. Whilst the first approach didn’t provide enough proof to link the images to a specific source, the latter gave us a promising hint about the original source of the data. Finally, this thread allowed us to obtain compelling evidence about the origin of the profile batch we bought.

Small Fish, Big Pond

The popular online dating service Plenty of Fish \(POF\) was launched in 2003 in Vancouver, Canada. As of 2017, the company claimed to have 150 million registered users and an average 65,000 new subscriptions per day, making it the second most popular dating site in the US, just after Tinder. In 2015, POF sold the dating site for $575 million to Match Group, one of the biggest players in the global online dating industry. As stated in the site’s privacy policy, Plenty of Fish (among other undisclosed third-party companies) actively shares user information (which likely implies user profiles) with its parent company, Match Group and other Match Group businesses. Thus, even though it is not specifically stated in Plenty of Fish’s privacy policy, if you have a profile on Plenty of Fish, it is possible that it might be sold to, shared with, or used on other dating services that belong to dating companies like Match Group.

Carbolytics

Inanimate Species,

Intel 4004 (1971)

4004 opened the way to translate artificial intelligence in inanimate objects.

Busicom 141-PF Calculator

1971 – 2021 (2250 to 16,000,000,000 of transistors)

Industrial Applications 1971 - 2021

In essence, Microprocessors domesticate and harness electricity. The amount of electricity that they can harness depends on the number of transistors that they contain, which translates into increased processing power.

The transistor (MOSFET) ‘is the most widely used and manufactured electronic device in the world’. In terms of the total number of transistors in existence, it has been estimated that a total of 13 sextillion MOSFETs have been manufactured worldwide between 1960 and 2018.’[16]

The primary driving force of economic growth is the growth of productivity.

‘Numerous studies have traced the cause of the productivity acceleration to technological innovations in the production of semiconductors that sharply reduced the prices of such components and of the products that contain them (as well as expanding the capabilities of such products).’

Moore Law

Moore's Law – The number of transistors on integrated circuit chips (1971–2018)

Moore's law describes the empirical regularity that the number of transistors on integrated circuits doubles approximately every two years. This advancement is important as other aspects of technological progress – such as processing speed or the price of electronic products – are linked to Moore's law.

“Moore's Law refers to the perception that the number of transistors on a microchip doubles every two years, though the cost of computers is halved.”

Global Warming Curve

Stefan Rahmstorf @rahmstorf · Dec 17

NASA global temperature for November is out! Here is what the 12-months running average looks like. #globalwarming

Extinction Curve

It is expected to have 50 billion network connected devices by 2020 and 85 billion by the end of 2021.

Typically, modern laptops have 2 microprocessors.

In 2020 a total of 421.985.000 Microprocessors were sold globally.

The estimated number of species on the planet is 8.7 million.

Anthropogenic Mass vs. Biomass

‘Insects are by far the most varied and abundant animals, outweighing humanity by 17 times. They represent around the 80% of the total animal biomass of the planet and create the biological foundation for all terrestrial ecosystems of the planet. They are “essential” for the proper functioning of all ecosystems, as food for other creatures, pollinators, pest controllers, and recyclers of nutrients."

‘More than 40% of insect species are declining and a third are endangered. The rate of extinction is eight times faster than that of mammals, birds and reptiles. The total mass of insects is falling by a precipitous 2.5% a year, according to the best data available, suggesting they could vanish within a century’.

Insect Extinction Rates

Global index of invertebrate abundance

“The rate of insect extinction is eight times faster than that of mammals, birds and reptiles. The total mass of insects is falling by a precipitous 2.5% a year”
